Kath O'Donnell yeah I see what you mean. sex shop must have been 92/93. alarm was before this – maybe 89/90/91. my memories are fading with the dates & lots of the old flyers don't have the year (can sometimes work it out lining up the day to calendar year). gogo's 91-92/93. transformers we went there 88-90/91 (the end was in parallel to alarm). there were others too in the city. wall st maybe 87/88. I forget how long they all lasted.

"In Brisbane, dj Gracie is a name that seems to be glued into any sentence when a "who plays the best house music?" topic is raised. He arrived in Australia in 92 from Glasgow and quickly set about launching the Cities 1st House night at the Site nightclub, called Icon in the Attick."

flyers for the other one. I've found often places had different spelling on the flyers – dj names and night names

Kath O'Donnell yes, good idea. I need to stop being slack and get more of this done

Graeme Gracie Chalmers Icon came after a couple big parties. That was my night. I painted the whole damn room and the floor only went for a few months then we launched Chill Bar. I brought Joe 90 up for that and we got him a gig at one of the parties after that.

Jeremy Glover and there we have it! Kath O'Donnell love job, remember that x
12 hours ago · Unlike · 1

Sue Shanahan Matt, just email Gracie , he's on Facebook. You need to confirm this Attic/Icon business, in order to move on lol
12 hours ago · Unlike · 1

Jeremy Glover already confirmed above, his ears mustve been burning or something

Kath O'Donnell it seemed like the prodigy played in bris every few months at one point. they must have loved Aus. in the early days (saw them in syd nye once too 92/3 or so, with vision 4/5). great nights Gracie. all of them
12 hours ago · Like · 2

Kath O'Donnell aha, that explains a lot
12 hours ago · Like · 1

Matt Neurojack right so Graeme Gracie Chalmers it was the Attik and then Icon when it became more prog house? Joe 90 was still The Attik yeh? or vice versa?

Jilly Magee de Chinky-Stickens We should be able to get something together for the beat aye? But ongoing as well as we'll have to rebuild synaptic neural connections that haven't been used this decade and that can take a while

Jeremy Glover I was relying on the beat to in part rebuild those synaptic connections

11 hours ago · Unlike · 2

Kath O'Donnell yeah I think we could start with a google spreadsheet or something for the beat? get a big chunk of it in. might not have all his gigs. then build on that later?

Sharon Ruth Barbour Haha sex shop was just debaucherous. Hedonism at its best. I remember one night when everyone got wiped out on strong 'alcohol' haha! and the entire dancefloor at its peak were lying down rolling around, lying in each other's Laps just taking and connecting. Hilarious....the entire dancefloor was lying down on the dancefloor writhing around, rolling to the left and meeting someone new and then to the right. It was classic. A truly permissive and safe space to be whacked and happy but they shut it down pretty quick and I think the whole scene pretty much got relocated to the valley. Eviction from the city!! Not fit for the CBD! Haha! Sx

Sue Shanahan That's hilarious and true. Lol it was short. I was thinking that last night. I don't think it even lasted two years. Maybe just a year. Anyone know? Maybe that's a bit of a stretch but it was short yes.

Jeremy Glover haha, Shazza! yeah thats the shiz i'm talkin about. I was going to mention the occasional lack of dancing, despite the good music ... Alcohol? you mean they were serving alcohol unlicensed? for shame yeah I reckon it would have been lucky to be 6 months. Its pretty much where I met you Sharon (well I do think there was at least one earlier occasion where we all met and didnt actually make it out ...) and here we are, many of us still friends 20 years later, so that place holds a special place in my heart. just a couple weeks ago you were like comeon guys, just come out and shake your groove thang for a couple hours! before sitting on the table lol xo
